Being a Councillor.

Cheverell Magna Parish Council needs a new team member; if you think you would like to take the wishes of the Parish forward and are over 18 years of age contact the Clerk by emailing Jan Sargent, the Parish Clerk, Proper Officer and RFO on: clerk.cmpc@hotmail.com

What is a councillor? Councillors are elected to represent an individual geographical unit on the council, known as a ward or - parish - in Cheverell Magna it is the entire parish. They are generally elected by the public every four years, but there is a Co-option space available on the Parish Council at the moment as Councillor Bland has given his resignation to the Parish Council.

What do councillors do?

Councillors have three main components to their work.

1. Decision making - Through meetings and attending committees with other elected members, councillors decide which activities to support, where money should be spent, what services should be delivered and what policies should be implemented.
2. Monitoring - Councillors make sure that their decisions lead to efficient and effective services by keeping an eye on how well things are working.
3. Getting involved locally - As local representatives, councillors have responsibilities towards their constituents and local organisations.

These responsibilities and duties often depend on what the councillor wants to achieve and how much time is available, and may include:

- Going to meetings of local organisations such as the Rural Police Neighbourhood Tasking Group
- Going to meetings of bodies affecting the wider community (The Warminster Area Board)
- Taking up issues on behalf of members of the public

How much time does it take up? Well, that depends up how much a Councillor wishes to get involved. Cheverell Magna is a small Parish and Councillors sometimes volunteer to do small tasks around the parish to support parishioners in addition to the components described above. However, on average, it generally takes upon no more than a couple of hours a week.

In the main, being a, parish councillor is an enjoyable way of contributing to your community and helping to make it a better place to live and work.

As a councillor representing your community you will help keep it a great place to live and work. You will be supported in your role and will be expected to undertake training. You should be comfortable working electronically. You should have a positive outlook and a can-do attitude and be willing to work as part of a team.
